About the beer...

Originally brewed for release to celebrate our 13th anniversary, Good MoJo was released for samples and growler service in MAY 2008. The remaining 45 or so gallons were cellared for release at the new location, beginning on SUN JUN 21 2009. The following description was written for the MAY 2008 release. As of JUN 2009, this beer is 8 years old.

Good Mojo Sour Brown Ale is a blend of new [70%] and old [30%] beers. The new is brown ale with sour cherries, fermented with a Belgian yeast strain. The old is seven-year-old beer to which berries, lactobacillus, pediococcus, and brettanomyces were added along the way. This sour beer aged in American oak Cabernet Sauvignon barrels for four years before being transferred to stainless kegs, where it continued to do its magic for the last three years. In May the sour funk was blended with the fresh brown ale, then keg-conditioned with yet another Belgian yeast.
